Ian MacDonald

Ian MacDonald is an Official Fuji X Photographer based out of Vancouver, BC, Canada.

His work is candid and documentary in nature, with a focus on street, travel and candid wedding photography.

Ian has also been an educator for over twenty years, currently offering group street photography workshops, private one on one photography workshops and photography education online with students around the world.

Collaborating with others and building relationships within the photography community are central themes for Ian, and he loves the process of photography as much as he does the art that he creates.

Virginia MacDonald

Hi my name is Virginia and I love photography. I don't really know what I'm doing so I just wing it most of the time! Ha ha. I'm not lying either!

I got my first camera when I was a teen. I fell in love with sunsets, Nature & Wildlife! I still love all that, plus I also enjoy doing portraiture, including turning a portrait into something more artful & painterly.

Learning composites is a challenge, but that's what I like about it. I have taken the course at Niagara College and even got my Diploma! However, I still don't fully know what I'm doing. I learn best hands on and by making many, many mistakes.

Every day with my camera is a learning curve and I love it.

Getting out there and photographing anything & everything I see, is something I'll never get tired of.

I enjoy meeting other photographers and learning from each other is the best part! I look forward to meeting everyone in the club, with hopes of going on outings, and having a great time!
